Barbie

BARBIE WORLD: THE BALLET
CHOREOGRAPHY: LINDA HOLLAND
COSTUME DESIGN: BRITTA KINGSMORE

In the beginning, Ruth Handler watched her daughter Barbara and friends playing with paper dolls. The children used them to play make-believe, imagining roles as college students, cheerleaders, and adults with careers. Handler aspired to invent a doll that would better facilitate the way young girls were playing with their dolls.

“Barbie” was released in 1959 followed by “Ken” in 1961. The new doll was very unlike the baby and toddler dolls that were popular at the time. This was a doll with an adult body.
